

Article Processing Charge (APC) Policy and Payment Information

This document provides payment information for manuscripts submitted to the Journal of Human Sciences.

Submission of a manuscript is free of charge. A non-refundable Article Processing Charge (APC) of USD 75 applies only to manuscripts that pass the initial editorial screening and are considered eligible to proceed to peer review.

The charge may be paid in USD or in Turkish Lira (TRY). For payments in Turkish Lira, the conversion from USD to TRY is made according to the exchange rate applied by the author's bank or payment service provider at the time of payment. The payment reference/description must include the Submission ID number, manuscript title, and author's full name.

The fee covers open access publication, DOI registration, editorial and technical processing, and related publishing services. No additional fees are charged.

Editorial decisions are made independently of the author's ability to pay. Payment allows the manuscript to proceed to peer review, but does not guarantee acceptance for publication.

Fee waivers are available upon request for authors facing financial hardship. Waiver requests are considered independently of the academic evaluation of the manuscript.

The payment details are provided below. After payment, authors must send the Submission ID number, corresponding author's name, manuscript title, and proof of payment to support@j-humansciences.com. The same address may be used for payment-related enquiries.
