RAPTOR
RESERVE

Briefing

Greetings, Special Agent K,

One of our "bait billionaires" received a very interesting invite. They are to join an expedition to a remote island, where dinosaurs have been resurrected. Apparently the allure of this place is to watch poor people be eaten by prehistoric animals. Humans sure have interesting concepts of entertainment.

Anyway.. At first we figured this was a hoax, but it seems the invite was genuine. This means you now get the wonderful task, of investigating this mysterious and barbaric island.

The only information we have is that the place is called "Raptor Reserve". The invite itself was passed along via a printed note. Our bait billionaire never saw their face, they just discovered the note in their left coat pocket.

We contemplated accepting the invite, and sending our bait billionaire in undercover. However, there's a real chance this might be a kidnapping or other scheme. So we're giving you 36 hours to find answers before we consider this option.

I'm afraid the name of the place is all you have to go on. Since this leaves so few options, I'll extend your mandate beyond passive information gathering. Once you've identified someone involved with the day-to-day operations on the island, you're allowed to electronically communicate with them to get information.

As always Special Agent K, the contract is yours, if you choose to accept.
