UNITED NATIONS
2018 WORLD HEALTH DAY

On April 6, 2018, the United Nations Postal Administration issued six stamp designs – two for each of the U.N. post offices - to honor the 70th anniversary of the formation of the World Health Organization on April 7, 1948.

WHO's objective is to achieve a healthier future for people everywhere in the world. This includes fighting an array of diseases from influenza and HIV to cancer and heart disease, as well as ensuring that water and air are safe and clean all over the world. The organization has offices in more than 150 countries where staffers engage governments and other partners to join these efforts.

U.N. post office at U.N. headquarters in New York City, USA

U.N. post office at the Palais des Nations in Geneva, Switzerland

U.N. post office at the Vienna International Center in Vienna, Austria

