Album Contents

This album contains United States general postage issues for the years 1990 through 1999.

Album Organization

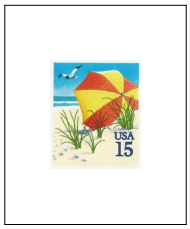

This album is organized by year of issue and within year of issue by definitives followed by commemoratives. Exceptions to this ordering occur when variants of a particular stamp were issued over a period of years. In such cases all the variants appear in the first year of issue. Additionally, if a series, such as Prominent Americans was issued over a period of years, the whole series appears in the first year of issue. Within this broad organization, the stamps are generally arranged in Scott catalog number order (though the catalog numbers do not appear). Deviations from Scott catalog number ordering occur for such things as page aesthetics, grouping stamp formats (e.g. booklet panes), and keeping variant types together.

Optional Capabilities

The album includes a number of formats/categories of stamps which you may wish to exclude from the album you print for yourself. The ALBUM GENERATION OPTIONS discussion which follows these notes in the .txt file explain how to do this customization.

Home on the Range
The cowboy is an enduring figure in American folk history. The tall tales of self-reliant trailhands told 'round the chuck wagon and campfire breathed life into the popular legend of the rugged individual.

Buffalo Bill
William Frederick Cody
1846-1917
Frontier scout, pony express rider, buffalo hunter, army guide, Indian fighter, flamboyant Wild West showman, and hero of Ned Buntline dime novels.

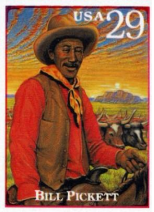

Jim Bridger
James Bridger
1804-1881
Hunter, trapper, scout, fur trader, mountain man, teller of tall tales. Earliest visitor to the Great Salt Lake. Built Fort Bridger on the Oregon Trail.

Annie Oakley
Phoebe Anne Oakley Mozee
1860-1926
"Little Sure Shot," she was a major star of Buffalo Bill Cody's Wild West Show for 17 years. Sharpshooter and entertainer. Source for Annie Get Your Gun.

Native American Culture
Early travelers to the West encountered rich and complex societies living close to the land in harmony with nature. Tribal lore and extensive archaeological ruins attested to centuries of habitation.

29¢ John Charles Fremont

29¢ Wyatt Earp

Chief Joseph
Hin-mah-too-yah-lat-kekht
"Thunder-traveling-to-loftier-heights"
c.1840-1904
Eloquent, noble Nez Percé chief whose brilliant tactics allowed his people to fight off the U.S. army across several states.

Bill Pickett
Willie M. Pickett
1870-1932
Fearless black cowboy, rodeo showman and rancher, said to have invented bulldogging. Both Will Rogers and Tom Mix served as his assistants.

Bat Masterson
William Barclay Masterson
1853-1921
Lawman, buffalo hunter, scout, gambler, editor. Died at his typewriter, a New York sportswriter. "Sky Masterson" in Guys & Dolls is based on his character.

John Frémont
John Charles Frémont
1813-1890
Explorer (known as "The Pathfinder") general, governor, senator, and anti-slavery presidential candidate. Explored and mapped the Oregon Trail.

Wyatt Earp
Wyatt Berry Stapp Earp
1848-1929
Lawman in Wichita, Dodge City & Tombstone. Gunfight at the O.K. Corral. Rode stagecoach shotgun for Wells, Fargo; owned interests in saloons and gambling halls.

Nellie Cashman
Nellie Cashman
c.1849-1925
"The Angel of Tombstone," anti-violence peacemaker who ran a boarding house, raised orphans, campaigned against public hangings, and once saved a man from an angry mob.

Charles Goodnight
Charles Goodnight
1836-1929
Texas Ranger, Indian fighter and pioneer cattle rancher. Both the Goodnight Trail and the Goodnight-Loving Trail are named for him. First bred the "cattalo."

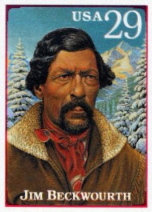

Geronimo
Goyahkla
"One-who-yawns"
1823-1909
Chiricahua Apache war leader. A fine horseman, guerilla leader and tactician who led war parties for 30 years. Widely believed to have spiritual powers.

Kit Carson
Christopher Carson
1809-1868
Frontiersman, trapper, hunter, soldier, guide to Frémont, Indian agent, brevetted brigadier-general. He had close contact with Native Americans in many states and territories.

Wild Bill Hickok
James Butler Hickok
1837-1876
Scout for Custer, stage driver, trick rider, gunslinger, lawman. Killed while playing poker, holding aces and eights, now known as the "dead man's hand."

THE YELLOW KID
R.F. Outcault (1863-1928)
The first popular newspaper color cartoon was Hogan's Alley starring the Yellow Kid. The tenement exploits of the Irish immigrant kid ignited public affection; when two New York papers fought over rival versions, "Yellow Journalism" was born.
The cartoon ran 1895-1898.

THE KATZENJAMMER KIDS
Rudolph Dirks (1877-1968)
The oldest comic strip still being produced, this comic stars the mischievous antics of Hans and Fritz. The Katzenjammer Kids was one of the first comics to use regular characters, sequential drawings, and cartoon symbols.
The strip started in 1897.

LITTLE NEMO IN SLUMBERLAND
Winsor McCay (c1867-1934)
Little Nemo was the first strip to be drawn realistically and to utilize quality color printing. Nemo's daydreams and nightmares were fantasies with dragons and monsters, travels to Mars, and slums that turned into gardens.
The strip ran 1905-11; 1924-27.

32¢ Bringing Up Father

32¢ Krazy Kat

BRINGING UP FATHER
George McManus (1884-1954)
Also known as Maggie & Jiggs, this was the story of a nouveau riche Irish immigrant and his social-climbing wife. Jiggs' habit of escaping from Maggie's fancy parties to eat corned beef and cabbage popularized this dish.
The strip began in 1913.
©1995 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

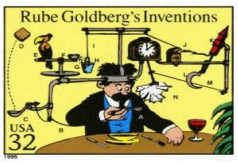

KRAZY KAT
George Herriman (1880-1944)
Krazy Kat was a surrealistic comic strip with changing backgrounds, poetic dialog, and strange props. While not widely popular in its own day, it's now generally considered to be a high mark of the art form.
The strip ran 1913-1944.

RUBE GOLDBERG™ INVENTIONS
Rube Goldberg (1883-1970)
Rube Goldberg was a cartoonist with an engineering degree. This combination led him to create a series of crazy inventions – in this case an automatic napkin – that amused readers for decades.
The panel ran 1914-1964.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS
Fontaine Fox (1884-1964)
"The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All Trains" began its run as a part of the colorful landscape of Toonerville in Fox's panel cartoons around 1910. The Skipper and his out-of-control car inspired toys, games, and movies.
The panel ran 1910-1955.

GASOLINE ALLEY®
Frank King (1883-1969)
It began as a panel about men's interest in autos, but Gasoline Alley evolved to become a strip about the life and growth of average Americans. It was the first major strip where characters grew up in real time.
The strip began in 1919.

32¢ Barney Google

32¢ Little Orphan Annie

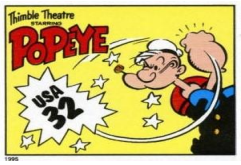

BARNEY GOOGLE
Billy DeBeck (1890-1942)
The schemer Barney Google (with the goo-goo-googly eyes, as the popular song went) was the most prominent player in a marvelous parade of character types. Later the strip became a hillbilly saga starring Snuffy Smith.
The strip began in 1919.
©1995 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE®
Harold Gray (1894-1968)
During the Great Depression, Annie was as responsible as anyone for keeping up the nation's spirits. Gray's morality tales of perseverance, independence, and courage helped make newspaper comics indispensible.
The strip began in 1924.

32¢ Dick Tracy

POPEYE
E.C. Segar (1894-1938)
Popeye was an overnight success when he made his debut on the stage of the Thimble Theatre comic strip in 1929. His adventures mixed thrills, satire, parody, and nonsense; his sayings ("I yam what I yam...") are part of our language.
The strip began in 1919.
©1995 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BLONDIE
Chic Young (1901-1973)
Young once said that he found the magic formula for creating a comic strip with which millions could identify – he simply restricted his premises to eating, sleeping, going to work, and raising a family.
The strip began in 1930.
©1995 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

DICK TRACY®
Chester Gould (1900-1985)
Although his Sunday pages utilized flat colors, Tracy's world was black-and-white: good vs. evil, right vs. wrong. The villains especially – Flattop, the Brow, Mumbles, Pruneface – were as ugly as their natures.
The strip began in 1931.

ALLEY OOP
V.T. Hamlin (1899-1993)
Hamlin's love of history and legend inspired him to create an epic strip filled with the strange and mysterious, leaving a legacy of impressive art and stories of time-travel, stone-age adventure, humor and romance.
The strip began in 1933.

LI'L ABNER
Al Capp (1909-1979)
Abner's town of Dogpatch was Capp's crossroads of the best and worst of the humanity he lampooned. His creations included the Shmoo, the Bald Iggle, Fearless Fosdick, and Sadie Hawkins' Day.
The strip ran 1934-1977.
© Capp Enterprises, Inc.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES®
Milton Caniff (1907-1988)
Caniff's artwork looked photographic; his characters spoke realistic dialogue; and readers identified with their personalities. Mood, evocation, atmosphere were Caniff's trademarks.
The strip ran 1934-1973.

PRINCE VALIANT
Harold R. Foster (1892-1982)
Prince Valiant was the last major strip to be created as a full-page, full-color picture-story. Foster's meticulous research for his Arthurian legend lent authenticity to battle scenes and domestic scenes alike.
The strip began in 1937.
©1995 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BRENDA STARR®
Dale Messick (1906-)
This classic soap-opera strip was a pioneer – a comic featuring a strong female lead character created by a female cartoonist. Brenda's big-city newsroom assignments usually led to adventure and romance.
The strip began in 1940.

Freestyle Wrestling

Wrestling has 10 weight divisions. It is the only sport with a maximum weight limit: wrestlers must be less than 286 pounds. The United States has earned more medals than any other nation.

Women's Gymnastics

Women gymnasts compete in an all-around event, a team event, floor exercises, balance beam, uneven bars, and vault. Contestants must be at least 15 years old by the end of 1996.

Women's Sailboarding

The first sailboarding contest was included in the 1984 Los Angeles Games. A separate women's event was added in 1992.

Men's Shot Put

The shot put has been included in all Games since 1896. A shot is a 16-pound ball of iron or brass. The United States has won 15 of 22 gold medals.

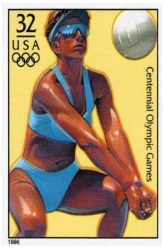

Women's Soccer

Although men's soccer has been a part of the Games since 1900, a women's tournament will be held for the first time in 1996. Eight teams will take part.

Men's Rowing

There will be 14 rowing events contested at the 1996 Games: 8 for men and 6 for women. For the first time, lightweight events will be included for men under 160 lbs. and for women under 130 lbs.

Men's Sprinting Events

The 100 meters and 400 meters were part of the first Games in 1896. In the 100, 200, and 400 meters and the two sprint relays, the United States has won two-thirds of the gold medals.

Mustang

Beautiful, agile, powerful, the North American P-51 is rated by many as the best fighter of World War II. The Mustang escorted bombers over Europe and the Pacific, sweeping the skies, and winning the hearts of its pilots.

Model B

By 1911, Wright biplanes had wheeled-skids, pilot seats, and single rear elevators. Late that year, after 49 days and numerous accidents, Cal Rodgers made the first transconti-nental flight in a modified Model B, the EX "Vin Fiz".

Cub

Perhaps the most famous of all light aircraft, the Piper Cub brought affordable aviation to countless enthusiasts. Reliable and fun, the plane spawned a host of imitators. Many originals are flown today, purely for the joy of it.

Vega

In 1932, Amelia Earhart soloed non-stop across the Atlantic and the U.S.—both firsts for a woman. Jack Northrop designed her beloved Vega, a sleek wooden monoplane that launched the Lockheed company on its path to success.

Alpha

A combination of new and old marked the handsome Alpha, designed by Northrop in 1930. Initially a six-passenger carrier, the plane found its later calling trans-porting the U.S. Mail and Asian imports from coast to coast.

B-10

An early 1930s breakthrough, this sleek monoplane took over the job of bomber from big, slow biplanes. The Martin B-10 carried a one-ton cargo, opened the eyes of strategists, and pointed the way to the hardy B-17 and B-24.

Corsair

The bent-winged F4U achieved one of WWII's highest victory ratios. Impressive in ground support, the Vought Corsair also served effectively in Korea. The plane was retired in the 1970s with a long and distinguished international record.

Stratojet

Released in 1947, Boeing's B-47 spawned a new age with its swept wings, six jet engines, and ability to refuel in flight. A new generation of large jet aircraft, including tankers, bombers, and the Boeing series of jet transports, followed.

Gee Bee

Built by the five Granville Brothers, the Gee Bee racers made headlines during the 1930s with their victories—and their crashes. Only master pilots, such as Jimmy Doolittle, could get the most out of the powerful innovative racers.

Staggerwing

Built for executives, the Beech Staggerwing was quick and luxurious. Pilots Louise Thaden and Blanche Noyes raced one to victory in the 1936 Bendix transcontinental race. Staggerwings later served as speedy Allied transports in WWII.

Flying Fortress

The Boeing B-17 is an American legend. In WWII, it carried the air war to Germany, bombing heavily defended targets while dodging flak and enemy fighters. Able to withstand severe damage, the "Fort" commanded great respect.

Stearman

Many of America's WWII pilots learned the basics in Boeing-Stearman trainers. After the war, they served equally well as crop-dusters. Today, they are often found in air shows across the country—restored icons of another era.

Lockheed's elegant "Connie" looked fast even when still. Beloved by passengers and pilots alike, it performed well on both national and international routes. It also served as the military's first airborne early warning aircraft.

Called "the fork-tailed devil" by the Germans, the Lockheed P-38's twin-boom configuration was unmistakable. It performed well in every World War II theater, especially in the Pacific against Japan's fast, nimble Zero.

Jenny

The Curtiss JN-4 "Jenny", born as a trainer for WWI pilots, became an official U.S. Mail plane and favorite barnstormer of the Jazz Age. Aerial acrobats walked its wings, defying death and delighting crowds below.

Wildcat

Grumman's F4F was the Navy's first line of defense in early WWII. It out-fought the faster, more agile Japanese Zero at the Coral Sea, Midway, and Guadalcanal. The Wildcat's rugged service continued throughout the war.

John Foster's (1648-1681) woodcut, Portrait of Richard Mather, ca. 1670, is thought to be the first print produced in America. Its strong silhouette and patterns of light and dark well suit the austerity of this early Puritan minister with his eyeglasses and Bible in hand.

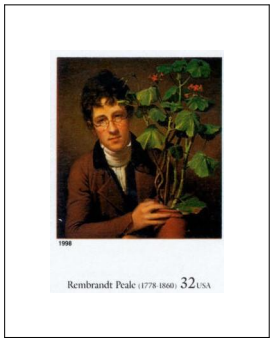

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
Princeton, New Jersey

The Freake Limner (17th c.) takes his name from the subject of this painting, Mrs. Elizabeth Freake and Baby Mary, ca. 1671-1674. They express pride in family and genealogy, while the colorful details of clothing and jewelry reflect a certain stature in colonial Boston.

Ammi Phillips (1788-1865) was an itinerant artist who worked mostly in the border areas of New York, Connecticut, and Massachusetts. Girl in Red Dress with Cat and Dog, ca. 1830-1835, is typical of his simplified approach to portrait painting and his sensitive treatment of faces.

George Caleb Bingham (1811-1879) was an important early painter of the western frontier in the mid-19th century. His strong, confident figures in Boatmen on the Missouri, 1846, reflect the sturdy optimism, growing industry, and golden promise of westward expansion.

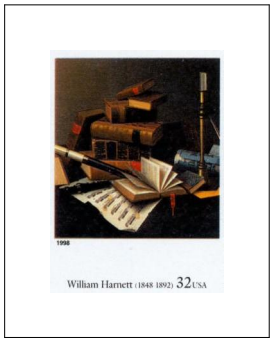

THE FINE ARTS MUSEUMS OF SAN FRANCISCO
San Francisco, California

Kindred Spirits, 1849, by Asher B. Durand (1796-1886) refers to the shared love of nature by the two central figures, painter Thomas Cole and poet William Cullen Bryant, who, with Durand, were founders of the Hudson River School, praising the romantic glories of the national landscape.

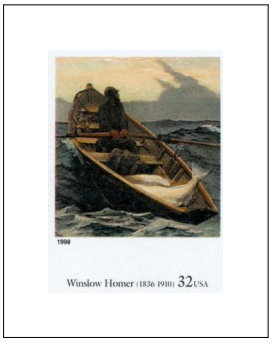

THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY
New York, New York

Joshua Johnson, active between 1796 and 1824, is believed to be the first professional African-American painter. Largely self-taught, he was likely aware of C. W. Peale's work in Baltimore, but developed his own style of colorful patterns and clearly outlined figures, exemplified in The Westwood Children, ca. 180-.

More than 16 million Americans served in the armed forces during World War II, and more than 405,000 lost their lives. U.S. intervention proved decisive in the Allied victories in Europe and in the Pacific.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

Antibiotics are used to treat bacterial infections. Penicillin, derived from mold as shown on reverse, saved the lives of thousands of wounded soldiers during World War II. Postwar streptomycin has been highly effective in combating tuberculosis.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

More than 16 million Americans served in the armed forces during World War II, and more than 405,000 lost their lives. U.S. intervention proved decisive in the Allied victories in Europe and in the Pacific.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

The 33rd President, Harry S. Truman guided the nation through the end of World War II and the beginning of the Cold War. A sign, which reportedly sat on his desk in his office at the White House, read: "The BUCK STOPS here!"

When millions of men joined the armed forces, millions of women took over factory jobs and made up more than one-third of the civilian workforce. Millions of women also served as volunteers.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

Commercial television formally began July 1, 1941, and by the end of 1949 more than three million American homes had sets. Many early programs, including dramas, variety shows, news shows, and comedies, were adapted from popular radio programs.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

Bridging the eras of swing and rock'n'roll, the jitterbug was a fast-paced dance performed to live music played by bands and to recorded music played on jukeboxes. It was popular with GIs, teenagers, and anyone else able to keep the beat.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

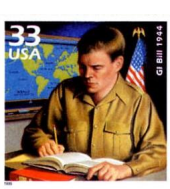

Abstract Expressionism was marked by a range of individual styles of modern painting and sculpture. Jackson Pollock (1912-1956) created his most famous gestural abstractions by pouring paint onto canvas laid on his studio floor.

The Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, better known as the GI Bill, helped approximately 2.25 million war veterans attend college. Millions of other GIs received job training; home, business, and farm loans; and unemployment benefits.
CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

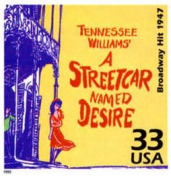

Big band music, popular on recordings and radio and in ballrooms and concert halls, distracted Americans during World War II. Led by Duke Ellington, Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, Count Basie, and others, the bands usually had 14 to 18 musicians.
CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

Concerned with function and simple shapes, the International Style employed materials such as glass, steel, and concrete. Its long-lasting influence is visible in the United Nations Secretariat and countless other office and apartment buildings.
CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1940s

The detail from the November 2, 1946, cover of The Saturday Evening Post foretells this country's baby boom. With the end of World War II, returning GIs married and started families, resulting in 75.9 million births from 1946 through 1964.

The Korean War (1950-1953), the first major United Nations military action, claimed the lives of more than 50,000 Americans. U.S. and other UN forces fought to oppose the invasion of South Korea by Communist troops.
CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1950s

With Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, Kansas (1954), the U.S. Supreme Court declared racial separation in public education unconstitutional. The ruling initiated the beginning of mandatory integration of public schools.
CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1950s

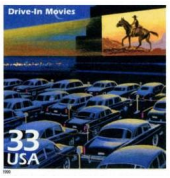

Cars of the '50s were large and ornate. Automakers attracted buyers with annual styling changes. Tail fins, dazzling grilles, chrome trim, and hardtop convertibles were popular, as were big V-8 engines and three-toned paint jobs.
CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1950s

"The Cat in the Hat" (1957) was written and illustrated by Dr. Seuss (Theodor Seuss Geisel). This masterpiece uses repeated syllables, rhythmic verse, and fanciful drawings to teach children to read and to use their imaginations.

With postwar prosperity, the blossoming of suburbia, and the national love for cars and movies, drive-in theaters were natural attractions for new American families. Teenage couples found privacy, and sometimes watched the movie.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1950s

Between 1949 and 1956, the New York Yankees™ and their crosstown rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers™, met five times in the World Series™: 1949, 1952, 1953, 1955, and 1956. The Dodgers won once, in 1955.

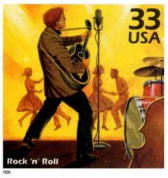

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1950s

Boxer Rocky Marciano, the "Brockton Blockbuster," held the world heavyweight title from September 1952 to April 1956, defending his crown six times. He is the only professional heavyweight boxing champion to retire undefeated.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1950s

"I Love Lucy" (1951-1957) was one of the most popular shows in TV history. Lucille Ball starred as a zany housewife trying to break into show business. Her real-life husband, Desi Arnaz, co-starred as her bandleader husband.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1960s

From August 15 to 18, 1969, approximately 500,000 people gathered for the Woodstock® Music and Art Fair. This festival of peace and music celebrated the best of the '60s youth culture and came to symbolize a generation.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1960s

President John F. Kennedy's 1961 commitment to put a man on the moon was fulfilled July 20, 1969, when the lunar module Eagle landed on the surface of the moon, and astronauts Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin walked on lunar soil.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1960s

The Green Bay Packers were the preeminent professional football team of the '60s. They won five National Football League (NFL) championships between 1961 and 1967, as well as the first two Super Bowl games.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1960s

Independently invented by Jack Kilby and Robert Noyce, the integrated circuit was first available commercially in 1961. It led to smaller, inexpensive, mass-produced electronic circuits, revolutionizing the computer industry.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1960s

Lasers can provide light in a narrow beam of high intensity and pure color. They were first operated in 1960 and revolutionized technologies from communications to surgery and led to everyday items like CD players.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1960s

The first championship game between the American Football League and the National Football League was January 15, 1967. Later dubbed the Super Bowl, the NFL's Green Bay Packers beat the Kansas City Chiefs.

The first nationwide Earth Day was held April 22, 1970. Celebrated with marches, speeches, planting and cleanup projects, it raises awareness of environmental issues, promotes conservation efforts, and encourages respect for the Earth.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1970s

Debuting in 1971, the innovative TV series "All in the Family" was the top-rated show five consecutive seasons. Prejudiced Archie, kindhearted Edith, and liberal Mike and Gloria lit verbal fireworks over subjects previously taboo.

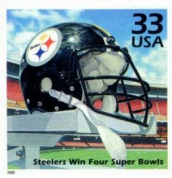

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1970s

Created for public TV by Children's Television Workshop, "Sesame Street" revolutionized children's TV by combining entertainment and education. It helps children worldwide learn about letters, numbers, and getting along with others.

CELEBRATE THE CENTURY – 1970s

Powered by strong beats on records spun by disc jockeys, disco music got Americans dancing in the 1970s. Dressed up in polyester and silk, people "boogied" at nightclubs beneath colored strobe lights and mirrored balls.

Famous Trains

33¢ Daylight

33¢ Congressional

33¢ 20th Century Limited

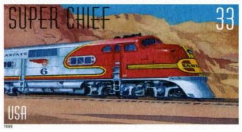

Called the "Most Beautiful Train in the World," the Daylight connected Los Angeles and San Francisco. In 1941, new GS-4 steam locomotives pulled the red-and-orange train along Pacific Ocean beaches and up El Camino Real — the King's Highway.

The slogan for the Congressional's route between New York and Washington was "Every Mile Electrified!" In 1935, designer Raymond Loewy improved the looks of its GG-1 locomotives and restyled its cars' interiors. The Public Works Administration assisted the route's conversion to electricity.

The 20th Century Limited was called a "National Institution" and the "Most Famous Train in the World." With its superfast 16-hour schedule between Chicago and New York, it catered to business travelers. In 1938, designer Henry Dreyfuss redesigned its J-3a steam locomotives and Pullman cars.

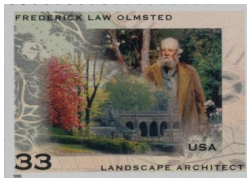

33¢ Hiawatha

33¢ Super Chief

Traveling over 100 miles per hour on its twice-daily run connecting Chicago, Milwaukee, and the Twin Cities, the Hiawatha was known as the "Fastest Train in America." In 1938, designer Otto Kuhler streamlined its F-7 steam locomotives in multiple colors.

Preferred train of Hollywood's elite traveling between Chicago and Los Angeles via Albuquerque, the Super Chief was known as the "Train of the Stars." Starting in 1937 with the E-1 type, diesel locomotives with a distinctive red-and-silver warbonnet design pulled luxurious stainless steel cars.

Insects and Spiders

33¢ Eye-spotted Lady Beetle

BLACK WIDOW

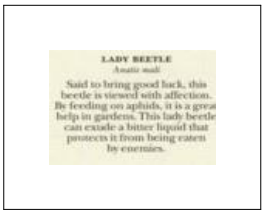

Latrodectus mactans

This spider uses its highly poisonous venom to kill insect prey. It does at times bite humans in self-defense, but victims usually survive if properly treated. Despite popular belief, the female does not always eat the male after mating.

ELDERBERRY LONGHORN

Desmocerus palliatus

A longhorn beetle, so-called because of its long antennae, produces sounds when disturbed, presumably to startle and discourage its enemies. The elderberry longhorn larva bores into root and stem tissue of elderberry plants.

LADY BEETLE

Anatis mali

Said to bring good luck, this beetle is viewed with affection. By feeding on aphids, it is a grea help in gardens. This lady beetle can exude a bitter liquid that protects it from being eaten by enemies.

33¢ Black and Yellow Garden Spider

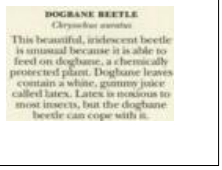

33¢ Dogbane Beetle

YELLOW GARDEN SPIDER

Argiope aurantia

The web of this spider is a familiar sight in meadows in the fall. Insects trapped in the web are quickly wrapped in silk by the spider. Occasionally the spider rejects and sets free distasteful insects.

DOGBANE BEETLE

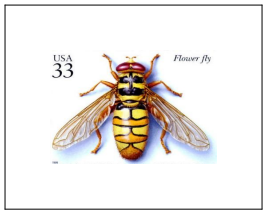

Chrysochus auratus

This beautiful, iridescent beetle is unusual because it is able to feed on dogbane, a chemically protected plant. Dogbane leaves contain a white, gummy juice called latex. Latex is noxious to most insects, but the dogbane beetle can cope with it.
