The Kingdom of Zulu (Zulu: WamaZulu), sometimes referred to as the Zulu Empire or the Kingdom of Zululand, was a monarchy in Southern Africa that extended along the coast of the Indian Ocean from the Tugela River in the south to Pongola River in the north 1879 the British invaded the Zulu kingdom, launching the Anglo-Zulu War. After an initial defeat at Isandlwana in January, British armies seized Cetshwayo's capital, Ulundi, in July, captured him in August, and divided the kingdom into 13 chieftaincies. In 1882 the southern part of the kingdom between the Mhlatuze and Tugela rivers was designated by the British as the Zulu Native Reserve.

In 1887 the British annexed what remained of Zululand outside the Native Reserve and the New Republic to form the British Colony of Zululand. Attempts by Cetshwayo's son, Dinuzulu, to prevent this were deemed by British authorities to be rebellion, and after being tried for treason, he was exiled to St. Helena in 1888. In 1893 Natal was given internal self-government, and in 1897 British Zululand was incorporated into Natal. After the defeat of the Boers in the South African War (1899–1902),
