Morvan

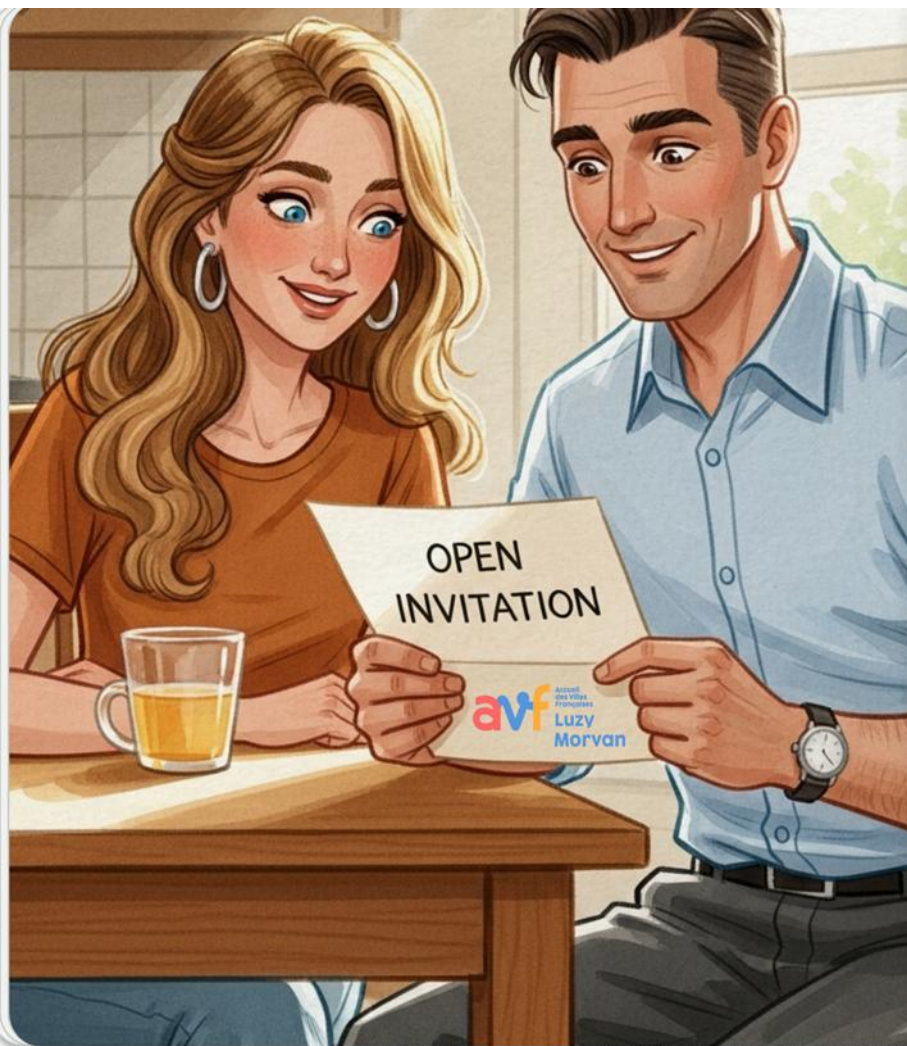

S olène and Gaël arrived in the heart of Morvan, their suitcases full of hopes and a touch of uncertainty. Far from their old region, everything seemed new, immense, and a little intimidating.

The landscape stretched endlessly:
green pastures, deep forests, gentle hills, and everywhere, those characteristic white cows. It was beautiful, certainly, but Solène sometimes felt a little lost in this immensity, searching for her bearings and familiar faces.

"How do I meet people here?" Solène wondered. Days passed, and the desire to share, to laugh, to build connections grew. Then, one day, a chance conversation, a small leaflet... and the name AVF Luzy Morvan appeared like a glimmer of hope.

Soon after, an invitation arrived:

Welcome Party : Luzy 4/11/2025 , salle des fêtes 18h

A golden opportunity to meet other people like her, who had just settled in this beautiful region.

The big day arrived. Entering the room, Solène was immediately enveloped by an unexpected human warmth. Welcoming smiles, attentive volunteers, ready to share their love for Morvan and the association.

Gemini can make mistakes, including about people, so double-check it.

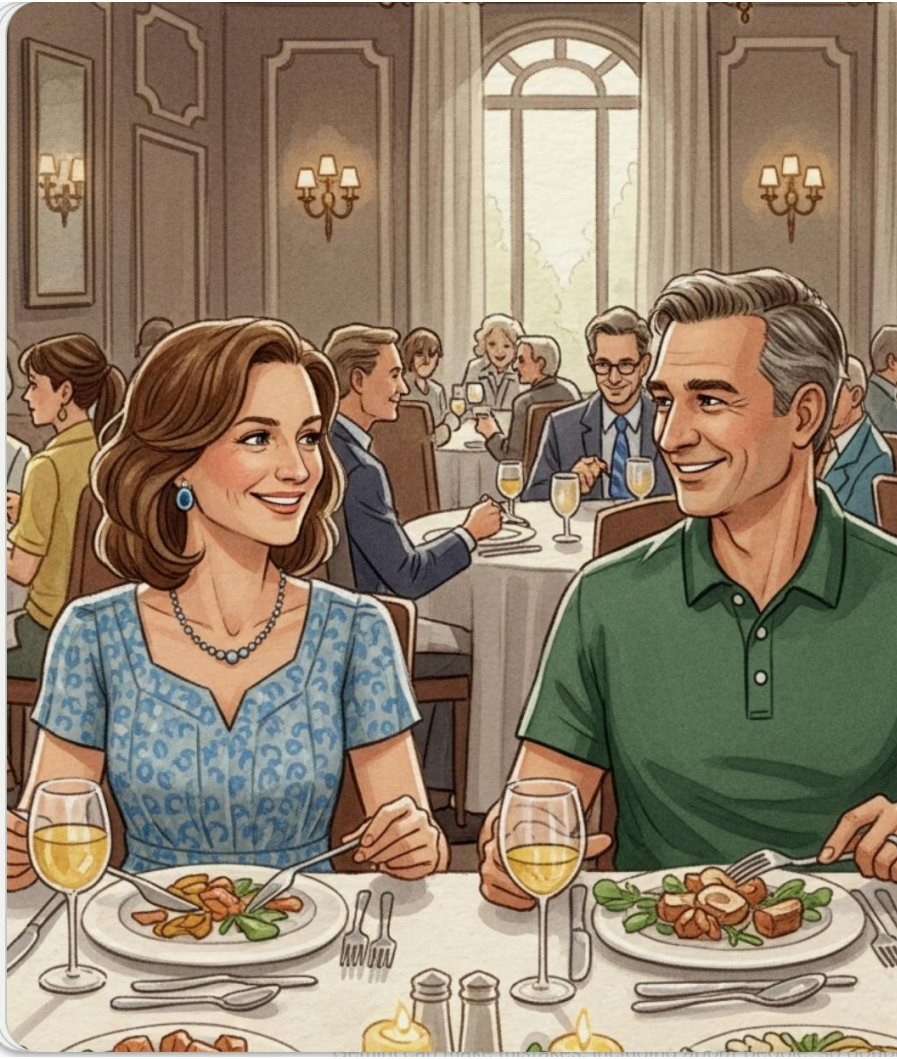

And what a discovery! Workshops for all tastes: local cuisine, painting to express creativity, tapestry to bring armchairs back to life, literature to travel through words, and even genealogy to explore one's roots.

For outdoor enthusiasts, hikes through the hills, bike rides on country roads, and lively games of pétanque. There were so many ways to enjoy nature and get active!

AVF also offered distant and nearby horizons: trips to Biarritz or Krakow, day trips to Vichy or Haras de Cercy, and fascinating exhibitions like the Lacroix exhibition in Moulins.

Not to mention the enriching conferences and magnificent dinners, privileged moments to exchange, laugh, and forge connections around a good table. Each event was a new opportunity to feel at home.

Solène was no longer alone. She had found a network of friends, support, and a new family within AVF Luzy Morvan. Next year, it would be her turn to welcome newcomers to Luzy, with the same warm smile she had received.
