THE JOURNAL OF POLITICAL ECONOMY and the first time I saw it I was very impressed by its beauty. It is a large tree, about 100 feet high, with a trunk diameter of about 10 feet.

The bark is smooth and greyish, with some horizontal lenticels.
The leaves are large, elliptical, smooth, dark green, with serrated edges. The flowers are small, yellowish-green, with five petals.
The fruit is a small, round, yellow berry, about 1 inch in diameter.
The wood is hard and heavy, with a fine grain. It is used for making furniture, doors, and windows. It is also used for making tools and utensils.
The bark is used for making dyes and medicines. The leaves are used for making tea and the flowers are used for making perfume. The fruit is eaten raw or cooked.
The tree is found in the mountains of the Andes, from Colombia to Argentina. It is also found in the forests of Brazil and Peru. It is a rare tree and is protected by law in many countries.
